

NABILA HUDA BINTI IBRAHIM

Australia Malaysia Virtual PhD
Internship Program - 2022

Optimizing The Potential of Human Capital Development
Under Look East Policy (LEP)
Through Malaysia-South
Korea Collaboration

Thesis Outline

Illuminating the success of LEP investment on human capital development through the emulation of South Korean working culture in Malaysian productivity.

Supervisors & Institutions

Assoc. Prof. Kim Keum Hyun
Universiti Malaya

Dr Seung-Ho Kwon
University of New South Wales

Future Goals

To elevate research collaboration by pursuing large-scale research funding, engage in cross-institutional collaborations, and contribute to evidence-based policymaking.

AMVPIP Experience

The AMVPIP program has provided me with a valuable platform—one I had never imagined accessing as a PhD student. It offered the opportunity to connect with leading experts in my field, whose insights and guidance have been fundamental in shaping my research into a meaningful and impactful study. This entire experience has significantly broadened my horizons, contributing to both my professional growth and personal development.

Key Takeaways

- 1) Cultural Diversity
- 2) Networking and Collaboration
- 3) Mentorship